To make people more aware about the long term health of ecosystem and social welfare, NSS Hansraj on 19th October, 2020, organised a webinar on 'Sustainable Development Goals and their importance' where the host was a well known environmental activist Miss Livia Van Heerde. She enlightened the audience on issues concerned with effective use of environmental resources and how to conserve ecological diversity. An interactive Q/A round was also held where several questions were answered regarding one's role in environmental protection and how can sustainable development goals be achieved within a shorter time span. It was a great and insightful session which surely helped everyone to learn necessary skills to address environmental issues in future and actions to keep the environment safe.
