Event Description

On 26th February, the Social Innovation department of Enactus, Hansraj College, conducted a cloth donation and personality development drive at Vidya NGO, an organization dedicated to empowering women. The event was focused on providing practical training and personal development skills to 30 women associated with the NGO.

The drive began with the donation of clothes collected through a campus-wide initiative. These clothes were provided to the women, who were being trained to create eco-friendly tote bags. The Enactus team not only supplied the materials but also supported the women in honing their entrepreneurial skills, contributing to their financial independence.

Following the donation, the team conducted a personality development session. This interactive session aimed at enhancing the women's confidence in professional settings, focusing on interview techniques, appropriate body language, and effective communication. Participants were given tips on how to make a positive first impression and how to articulate their strengths in job interviews.

The session was well-received, with active participation from the women, who engaged in mock interviews and discussions. The event concluded with a sense of accomplishment, as the women gained valuable skills for future employment opportunities. Overall, the drive was a success, fostering both social and economic empowerment for the women at Vidya NGO. The team's dedication and collaboration with Vidya NGO contributed to the meaningful impact of this initiative.
